Hi,

This is not an in depth consultation response but there are a few comments I would like to enter officially. Thank you for sorting out the table showing %'s in the statement.

I understand that the theft calculation is not altered and therefore we would not expect a significant shift in theft proportions. That being said I am still not comfortable with how it is allocated out or how to explain and substantiate it to customers who have to pay the bills.

Secondly I was not totally certain on the forecasted consumption volumes. It appeared that SPC 3 were forecast to increase which with comments about reduced AQs I assume was linked to site migration. Do we have any evidence to support further significant site migration to SPC3?

Regards,

Louise
