Agenda Item 2.0: Seasonal Normal Review Update

In addition to the normal deliverables required this year for the annual NDM profiles, DESC's workplan also includes analysis to support the Seasonal Normal Review. The next set of values are due to become effective in October 2025, however the analysis and conclusions will need to complete in 2024.

The main objective of this session was for DESC to consider the approach to how the review of the Composite Weather Variable formula will take place over the coming months.

In 2024, the Seasonal Normal Review will be a standing agenda item at all scheduled DESC meetings should industry parties be interested in this topic.
